Dear Seniors of Incarnate Word High School:

To realize the great gifts that God has given to each of you as individuals is an important part of your education. To appreciate these gifts, to thank God for them, to learn how to use them in a way that will benefit others as well as yourself is another important part of your training. May God, Who has begun and nurtured in you this good work at Incarnate Word High School, bring it to completion in the Eternal Commencement of Heaven.

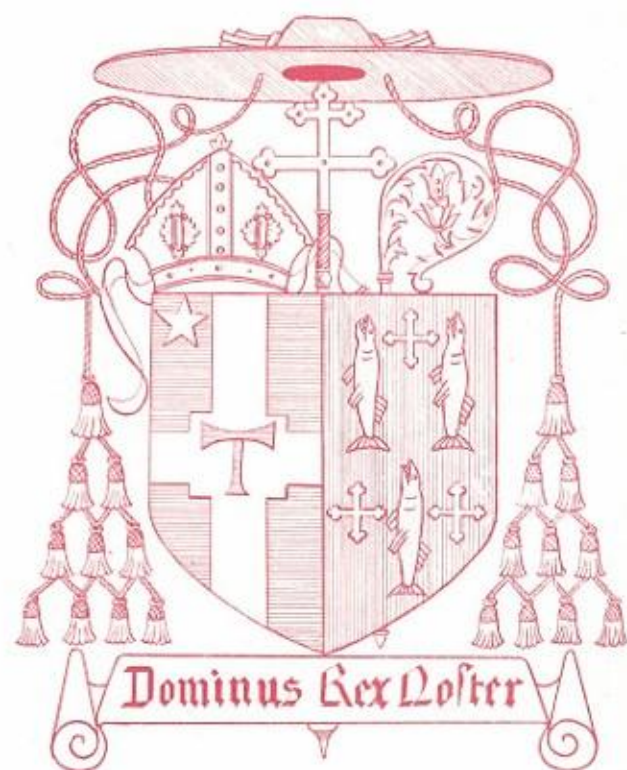

(Signed) Robert E. Lucey

Most Rev. Robert E. Lucey, S. T. D.

Archbishop of San Antonio

Dominus Rex Vester

HIS EXCELLENCY
THE MOST REVEREND STEPHEN ALOYSIUS LEVEN, D. D.
Auxiliary Bishop of San Antonio

No bishop could ask more of those in his care than that they keep their hopes and aspirations at all times lifted "towards the eternal commencement." This will insure them against discouragement and despair in daily failures. This will give them the mind and will to consider obstacles as something to overcome rather than as an opportunity to quit.

The eternal commencement is the same as the ultimate end. It is Jesus Christ, the Word Incarnate, the Alpha and the Omega. He said, "I am the Light of the world. He who follows Me walks not in darkness but has the light of life." (John 8:12). He said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life." (John 14:6).

He is not only our eternal beginning and our final end; He is the only way to the Father. He said, "No one cometh to the Father except through Me." (John 14:6).

Surely graduates of an institution dedicated to the Incarnate Word will find it natural to be devoted to Him and in Him find the Eternal Commencement.

The light of their wisdom inspires us always. . . .

Message To The Seniors

A quest suggests a goal to be reached and a guide to reach it. You have begun at Incarnate Word High School a quest for happiness. You have learned both its goal, eternal union with God, and the way leading to it, your Catholic Faith. May God Who inspired you to begin this quest lead you on to its realization-the ETERNAL COMMENCEMENT.

MEMORIES IN THE MAKING. . . .

Locked within the following pages are memories of four high school years. Still fresh and bright and new, still linked with things which seem the same, they are scarcely memories yet.

But give them a chance. Let Time touch them with its magic, and they will come back to us in the long, flat years that are to come, gilding with their luster the dullness of monotony, the humdrum routine of life as we are bound to know it in later years.

Here, then, are our memories, caught fast as they "hurried across the threshold of the present into the twilight country of the past." Undoubtedly some will be inexpressibly sweet, some bitter, but all part of the pattern that was our high school life.

Take them as they are. Time and patience will dull sharp edges; rejected friendship will be recalled without bitterness; names once cherished will scarcely be remembered; the kindness of friends will shine in primal beauty through the mist of years. May these memories bring us all a measure of happiness and may the galloping hoofs of Time never quite obliterate them from our highway of life.

Literature and life

English . . . our native language . . . a field without limit . . . four years far too short a time to learn all the grammar, literature, and composition techniques . . . four years by far too short to exhaust the literary treasures of Shakespeare, Tennyson, Dickens, Longfellow, Scott, Emerson, etc., etc.

"Macbeth" acclaimed at IWC Drama Festival.

Winning cast poses after presentation of scenes from Shakespeare's great drama: Sylvia Navarro, narrator; Alma Lopez, messenger; Mary Joe Diegel, Lady Macbeth; Judy Neitzel, Macbeth; Toni Kunz, physician; Rosemary Morris, lady-in-waiting.

"Into each life some rain must fall."

It is actually pouring here at English IV, as Sister Mary Climacus supervises a stiff test in English literature.

"Whan that aprille with his shoures sote . . ."

Chaucer's creations come in for lively discussion in Sister Mary Climacus' English class. Dorothy Kennell, Rosemarie Trevino, and Hope Jimenez are having a good time, and so is the teacher!

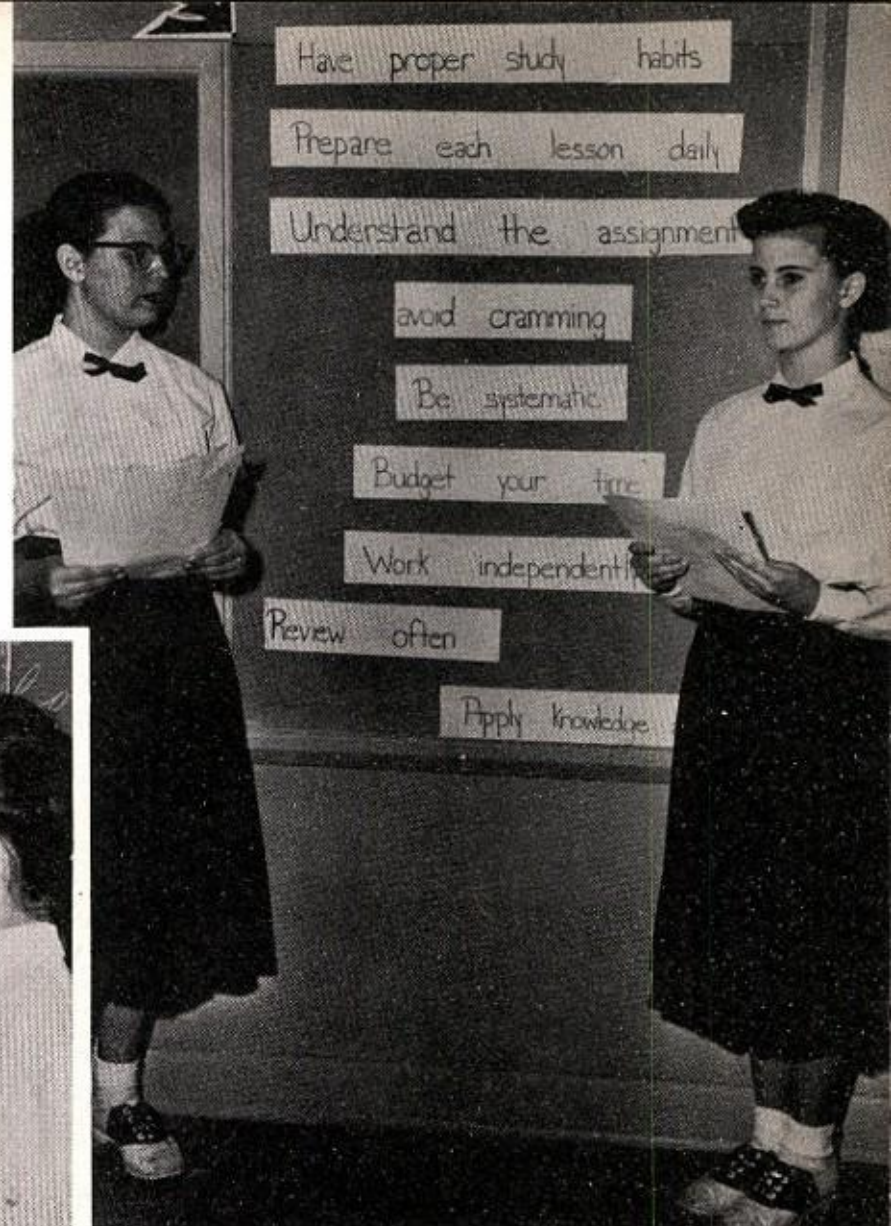

In the department of English Sister Mary Climacus, Sister Brendan Marie, Sister Jeanne de Matel, and Sister Mary Stephen help us to acquire a love of good books and to improve our skill in oral and written discourse.

Grammar is an indispensable tool in the mastery of correct English. Here Sister Brendan Marie checks the board work of Marguerite Panza and Hilda Cavazos.

How to study...Carolyn Taranto and Mary Ann Weiss learn the secret of correct study habits.

Seeing is believing . . . Sister Brendan Marie here supplements a unit on The Tale of Two Cities with a showing of the film. These attentive sophomores follow with interest the fate of their hero, Sydney Carton.

Conversation ... telephone ... platform ...

Speech I aims to lay a foundation in diction, articulation, and pronunciation, with training in fundamentals of expression. From the beginning, the art of conversation is considered, and practical exercises are given in class. Few students will become professionals on the stage, but all will have social relationships in life where the ability to converse, to talk interestingly and convincingly, and to deport oneself with ease and poise, will prove of inestimable value.

Current events are discussed, and the ability to think on one's feet, and to express one's ideas forcefully and directly, is developed by actual practice.

"Four score and seven years ago . . ." Rose Irene Hair makes a tape recording of Joan Ullrich's interpretation of the "Gettysburg Address." Joan Reyes lends a critical ear to the performance.

Mrs. Julia Weaver, Teletraining Instructor of the SBTC shows the right and wrong of telephone usage. Mabel Chacin, Maria Luisa Heredia, and Angela Schodts demonstrate for speech class.

Members of Speech I class refuse to believe their ears when they hear the play-back of their speeches. Irene Hair operates the machine.

Back to the classics! . . . The Pocket Library is the answer to the cry of avid sophomore readers Letty M. Garza, Pat Garcia, Gloria de los Santos, Rita Lou Murray, and Letty Y. Garza. They revel in Scott's immortal IVANHOE, "a story of chivalry, of knighthood, of cruel tyranny, of romance ... a story for all ages and all time!"

"Aside from its excellence as a literary composition, what value has SILAS MARNER in the class room?" Kaye Eckert poses this question to her panelists, Paula Schaur, Jeannie Simpson, Judy Tabbert, Joan Tomhave, Dorothy Vitek, and Mary Lou San Miguel, students in English II.

Latin ... the fountainhead of romance languages.

The study of Latin trains the mind to habits of concentration and perseverance. Knowledge of this language, "ever ancient, ever new," is the magic key to the riches of the classics, to the mysteries of the sciences, and to the beauty of the liturgy.

Under the capable direction of Sister Francis Xavier and Sister Mary Justina, students at IWHS are developing an appreciation of Latin and are paving the way to proficiency in English, Spanish, and French.

First year Latin students Carol Ann Franks, Carolyn Thomas, and Carolyn Taranto line up proudly to receive their Junior Classical League membership cards and pins, the coveted reward of serious study.

Virginia Jones, the young lady "under the yoke" does not seem in the least concerned that her predicament denotes "bondage; servitude." Ruthjean Simpson and Jeanette Wegmann have purloined the garden tools to lay upon the neck of the vanquished.

Proud of their trophy..

Joan!

Joan Tomhave, sophomore, and Mary Schram, senior, display with legitimate pride the trophy which their high scoring in nation-wide examinations has made the permanent property of IWHS. The award was made by the Association for the Promotion of the Study of Latin.

Budding architects...Harriet Keoghan stands beside the work of her hands, a Roman home, complete with family. Her assistant was Diane Sanchez.

Under the silhouette of Cervantes, the writer who "smil'd Spain's chivalry away" Spanish III students take a test on Don Quixote. With the guidance of Sister Rose of Guadalupe, the girls are delving into the riches of Spanish literature.

Spanish . . . the language of Cervantes

Open House draws guests to Spanish department ... Mary Fritz stands proudly by while Sister Rosa Guadalupe shows to Mr. and Mrs. Fritz the excellent work of their daughter.

Something to work for . . . Pia White, Spanish literature student, indicates to Joyce Chall, Toni Kunz, Rosemarie Barloco, Mabel Chacin, and Teen-sie Schodts the work expected of third year students.

Ladies of Spain!

Oh! Susanna!

Norma Martin and Yolonda Horcacas strike a pose for their respective dances at general assembly.

... The lovely Senorita Rodriguez deftly manipulates her king-size accordion for her dancing classmates.

LA BELLE FRANCE . . . land of charm

The IWHS language program offers two years of French. Grammar and elementary composition form the matter of the first year course; advanced composition and reading of standard classics are required of second year students. The universality of French encourages students to master the techniques of the written and spoken language, and modern texts are designed to develop an appreciation of French culture and a knowledge of French life.

The French classes are conducted by Sister Jeanne de Matel.

Carmen Novoa, Mary McGoohan, and Catherine Sampson supplement class work in French I with recordings by Henri Peyre and Mrs. H. Peyre. They are using the RCA Victor "Modern French by Sound", a course by Professor Jean Boorsch of Yale.

The order of the day . . . all students are required to do blackboard work daily. Judy Brose, Jan Ng, Rosemary Newman, Doris Richardson, Jane Saunders, Suzanne Brown, and Diane Kahn take their turn here to translate the exercise.

La Croisade has arrived! . . . The monthly paper from Seton University stimulates interest in the study of French II. Here the French class is amused by the sparkling drollery of La Croisade.

Life ... liberty ... and the pursuit of happiness...

A land deed (April 19, 1887) signed by Theodore and Edith K. Roosevelt fascinates Elida Chapa, Mary Schram, and Delina Casso.

The study of history - social studies, world history, medieval and modern history, American life and institutions, and the problems of democracy - gives IWHS students a deeper understanding of current events, and a greater appreciation of their homeland, America the Beautiful!

Under the leadership of Sister Francis Xavier, the department helps students to profit by the experiences of those who have made history.

Our Times, a weekly supplement to the history text, keeps students keyed to history in the making.

Look, Sister, is this the way to do it? Mary C. Garza, Elia Marta Gallegos and Beverline Sekula check their history outlines with Sister Francis Xavier.

A pretty good artist! . . . Maria Villarreal, Edith Cardenas, and Rebecca Chavez compare their version of the map with Denoyer-Gepperts!

"I like Ike" ..... In November feelings ran high as Ike supporters and Stevenson admirers sang the praises of their favorite candidates. Here Jane Fraser, Pat Miceli, and Carol Casseb "stand" for Ike, while Bettye Collins, Daisy Gonzalez, and Kaye Eckert "rest" assured that Stevenson is the man of the hour.

America's way is the best ... Shannon Boylen, Hope Jimenez, Sharon Hewitt, and Lucy Willis discuss current events, spotting on globe the places which make headlines today.

No wonder the girls are smiling! Milber Jean Bedford, Catherine Perry, and Suzel Trevino hold certificates of "superior" and "excellent" rating in public debate. The awards were made at the Junior Congress Assembly held on November 9-10 at St. Mary's University Law School.

Music! music! music!

The department offers training in piano, organ, and voice, and junior and senior concerts and recitals are an annual feature of the program. The high school operetta, an outstanding musical attraction, has become a tradition. "The Ghosts of Hilo" is the choice for 1957.

Opportunities for individual and group public appearances are numerous. The Choraliers participate in the annual Music Festival at I. W. College and hold membership in the Archdiocesan Unit of the NCMEA.

The methods employed by Sister Doloretta in her vocal and instrumental classes have produced signally effective results in the music of Incarnate Word High School.

Susanna Rodriguez, a voice student, entertains at a general assembly. At the Steinway is Pauline Tomayo, a third year piano student.

Mary Jo Ruby, organ student, prepares for the First Friday Devotions. She is attended by Mary Ann Dick.

How we love to sing!

Tape recordings of our songs help us to hear ourselves as others hear us. These freshmen are going places in music.

Yul Brynner and Deborah Kerr show us how it is done.

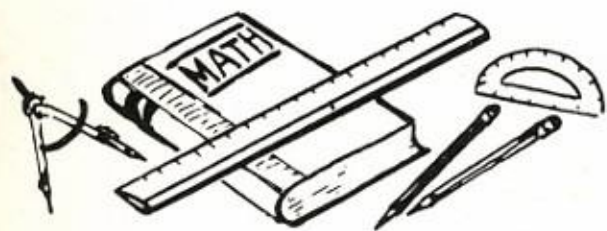

We learn about tones and tunes in theory class for freshmen.

The most popular singing group is the I W H Choraliers, noted for their fine choruses.

We master mathematics . . .

Circles . . . triangles . . . parallelograms . . . theorems . . . propositions . . . imaginary numbers . . . surds . . . radicals . . . all kinds of shapes and numbers fill our minds as we study Algebra I, Algebra II, geometry, and trigonometry.

These mental gymnastics keep us alert and enable us to think clearly.

Sister Mary of Perpetual Help, Sister Teresa Joseph, and Sister Margaret Helene are our guiding lights in the math department.

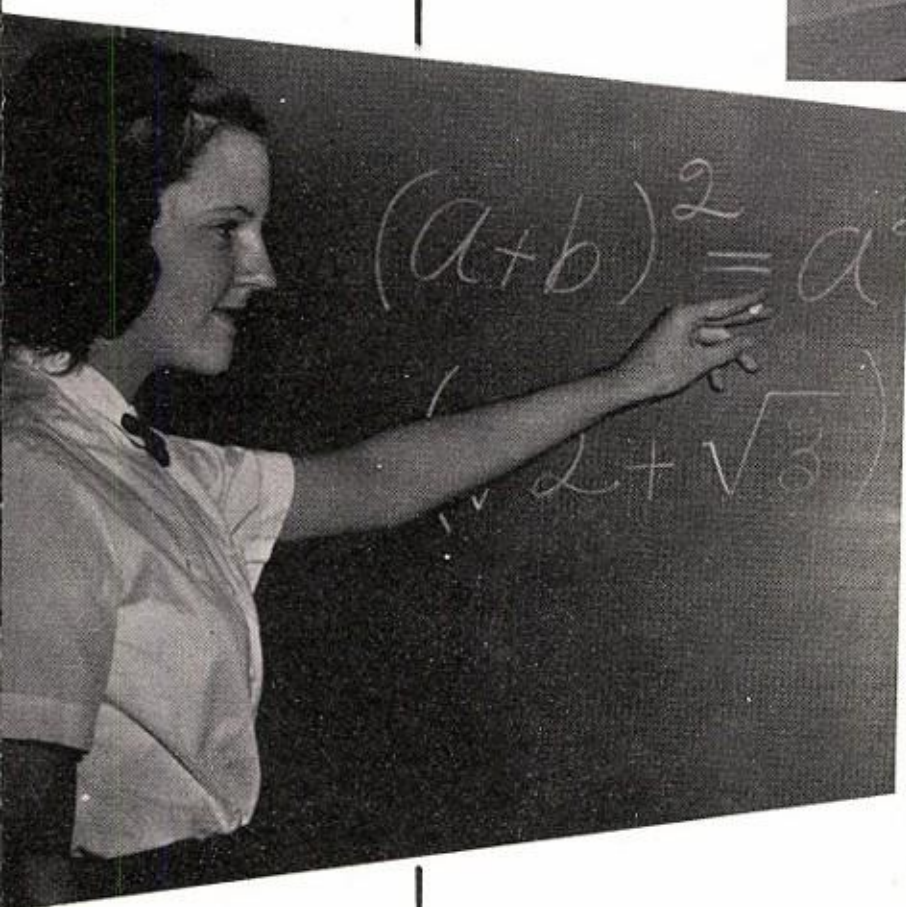

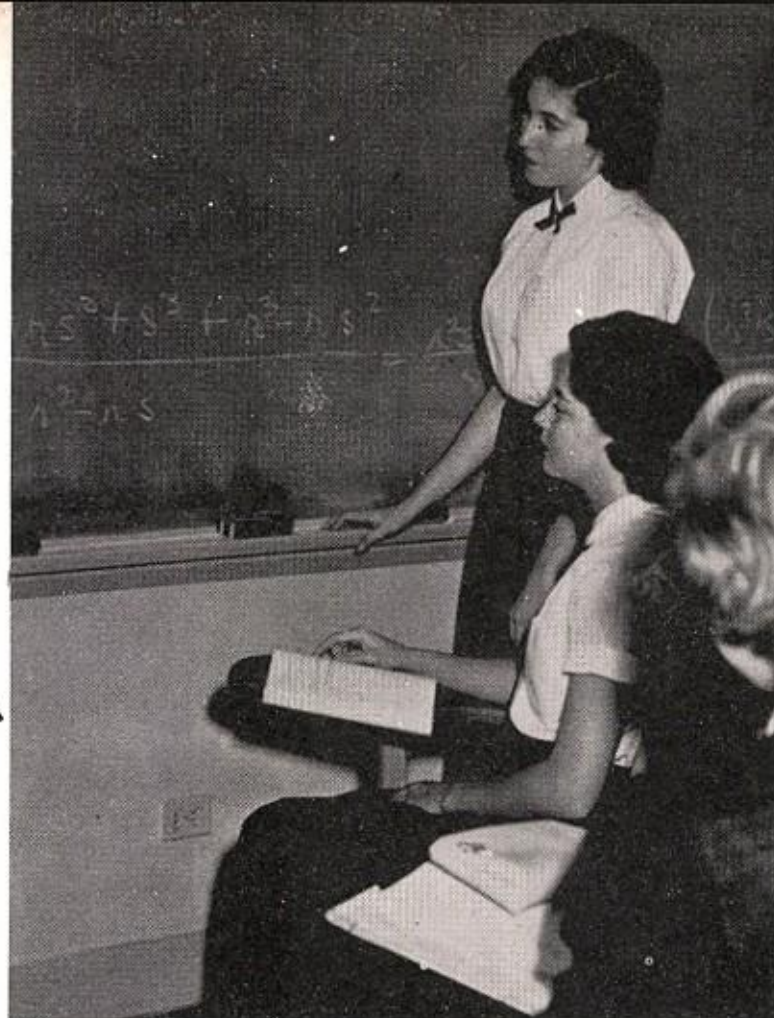

Watch these expressions! Smiles change to frowns of bewilderment as these first year algebra students are introduced to plus and minus signs. Sister Margaret Helene explains the problem.

Geometry is an interesting subject . . . Juniors Carol Lafferty, Marilyn Bueche, and Sharon Hewitt tangle with some intricate theorems.

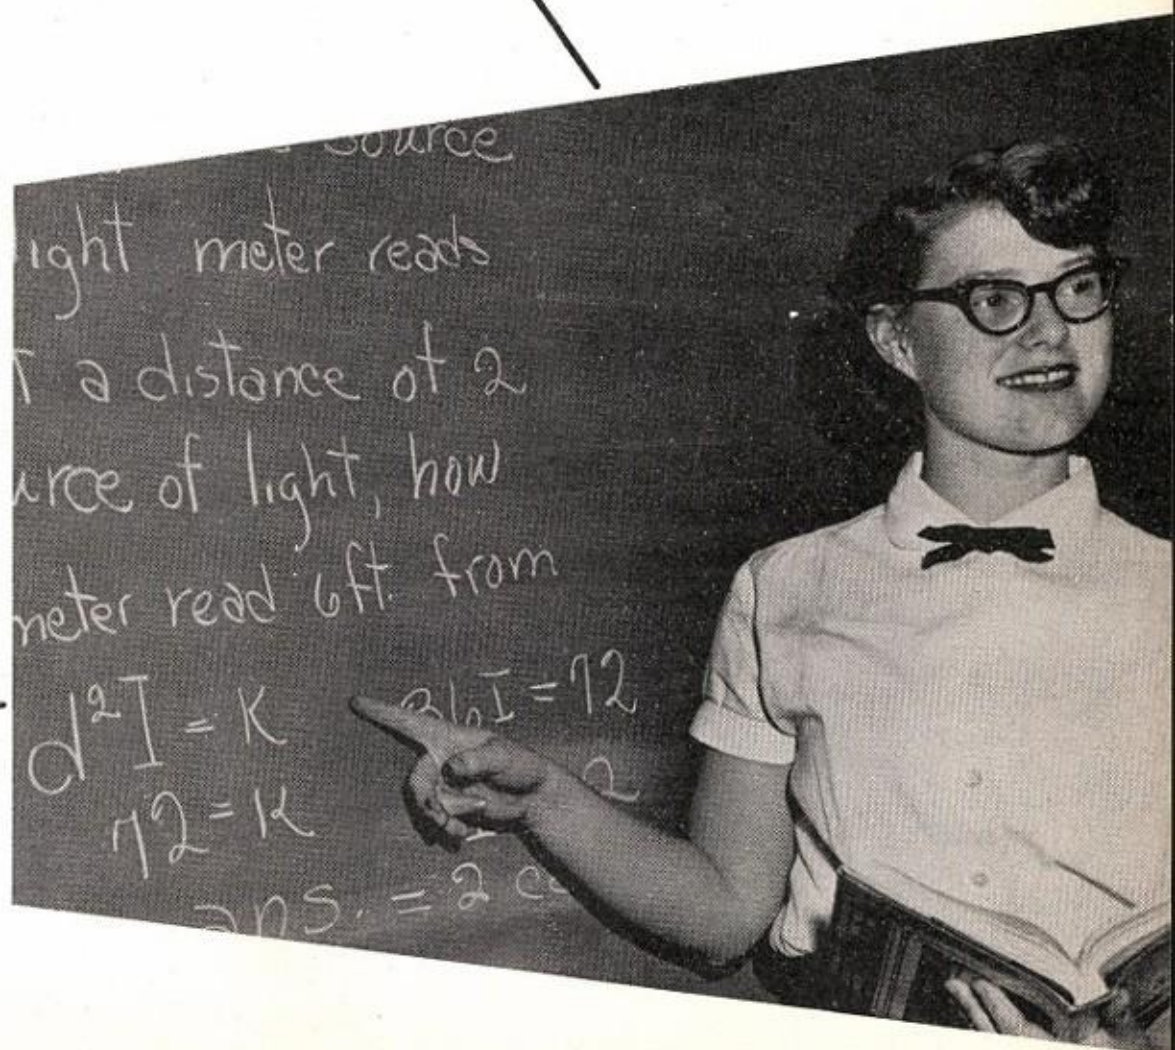

Norma Chapa and Jeanne Anne Perkins look over a complex fraction.

Joan Tomhave has something to smile about. She has just given a satisfactory explanation of the relationship between rational and irrational numbers.

"In reality it's quite obvious," Kay Measels says, as she uses a problem in physics to illustrate the dependence of science on math.

Magic artistry with the sciences...

General science paves the way at IWHS for a deeper probing into the physical and biological branches of this field of knowledge.

Each year the classrooms of the science department, under the direction of Sister Ernestina, burst at the seams, so popular are these courses with the girls.

Associated with this department are the most active clubs, appropriately named "Dizzy Diggers," "Kinetic Kids," etc. These never cease to beautify the campus, transforming barren soil into gorgeous gardens.

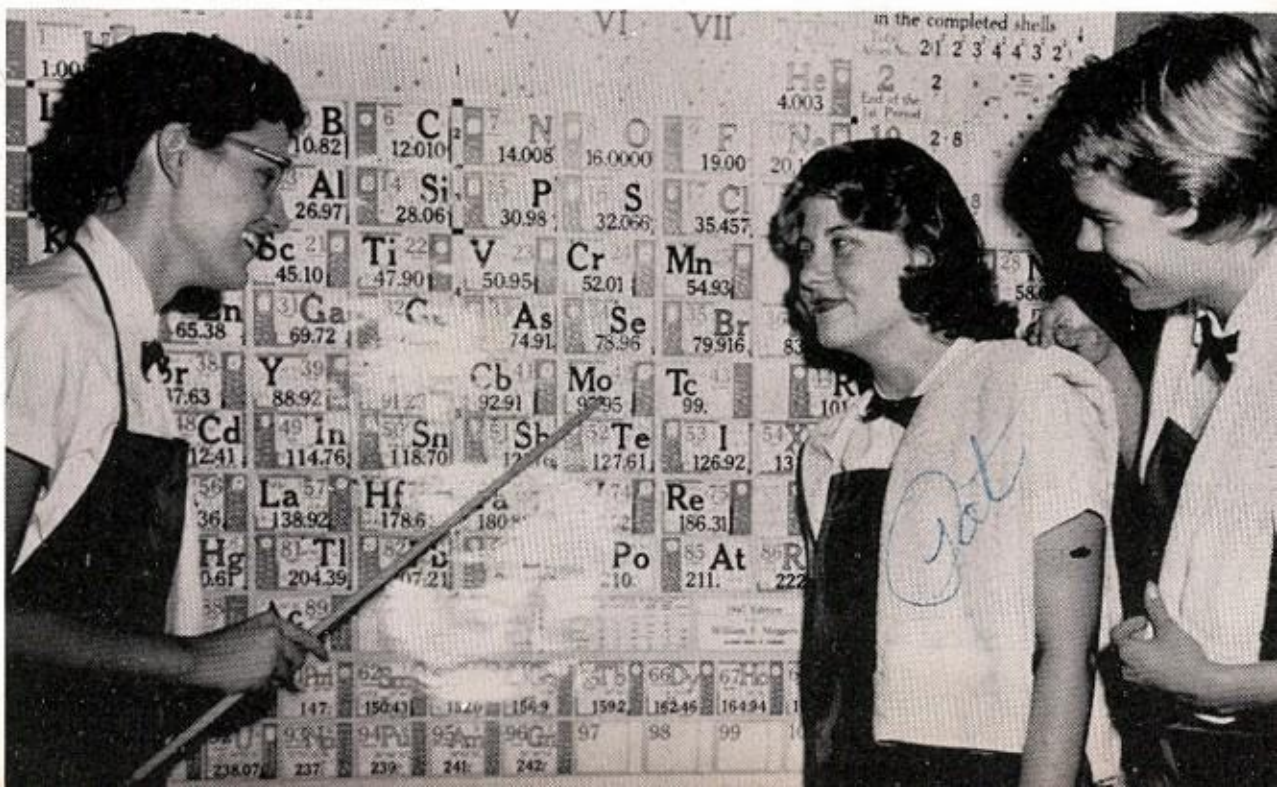

Beautification of cliff . . . Pauline Tomayo, Marianna Patton, Helen Jones, and Jacqueline Holder check with the original cactus plot and ivy garden to see if their plans have worked out.

Just wait and see what happens . . . Catherine Braune and Sylvia Garcia leave their experiment to check on the success or failure of Joyce Harrell and her partner, Carol Lafferty, who are engaged in condensation.

Scientists all???? Pat Girard and Suzie Dunn show absolutely no interest in either valence or electrons despite the best efforts of Maureen Conlin with her potent pointer.

pictures tell the story .

The art classes rate tops with all students. Day after day, under the guidance of Sister Mary Achille, they turn out masterpieces in water colors, oils, and papier mächē.

Besides securing credit in the course, the girls have many opportunities for free lance art in poster work, Open House displays, and prize-winning contests. Their nimble fingers work busily in all media, and their ability and originality amaze and delight. While fashioning masterpieces in clay, copper, and plastic, they continually keep before their minds the infinite beauty of God's world.

Behind the scenes in the art class, Sally Strauss, Irma Alcala, Susanna Rodriguez, Jeanine Gleitz reveal that the donkey, the duck, the lamb, and the cat are basically the same in the world of papier mache.

No species of bird or beast escaped the creative touch of artists Rosemarie Bennett, Gloria Barrera, Sally Strauss, Mary Isabelle Coronado, and Shirley Stowe.

Carolyn Cheshire, Blue Smock, Carlota Sandoval, Claudia Lugo, Marta, Pat Ryan, Shirley Forster, Rheeda Montanio, Sandy Johnson, and Patsy Derby line up for the poster contest judges.

Irma Alcala and Pauline Tomayo sketch trees. Josephine Keenan looks on.

Marilyn Bueche copies design from china. Cathy Sampson plans end sheet for the annual.

Looking wisely toward the future

Besides being educational, the course in home economics is interesting and economical. Skill in sewing has a twofold advantage for the modern girl; it puts within easy reach those pretty clothes which normally she might not afford, while giving her the satisfaction of creation in attractive models.

Under the direction of Sister Achille, the girls spend many happy hours in the sewing room designing and making pretty things for themselves.

Getting ready for Open House display

Geneva Tupa, Sandy Storbeck, Mary M. Mullen, Pat Dailey, and Mary Jo Marsala put the finishing touches on their dresses.

"Is this correct, Sister?" asks Mary F. De Leon of Sister Achille while Hilda Cavazos awaits her instructions.

Two-to-one . . . Harriet Fey starts on that first seam for better or for worse. Rhen Davydiuk hopes for the best.

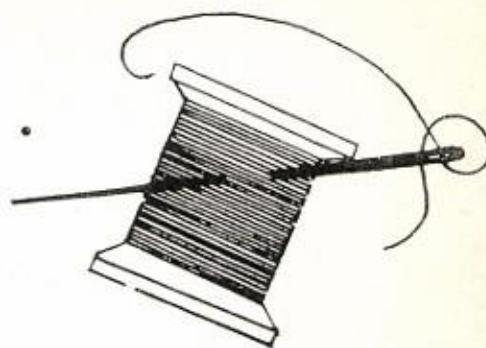

Hard to select the prettiest . . . Kathryn Lowery, Betty Krennek, Gloria Barrera, Mary Frances De Leon, Harriet Fey, Gwen Daily, and Ann Nemeck are proud of the finished product.

In the home the woman is queen...

Sylvia

All aboard for Gonzalez!

Joanne Parker and Sylvia Navarro are about to step into their car with Judy Neitzel and Barbara Kiobassa to attend the FHA Convention at Gonzalez, Texas.

This is how it's done . . . Catherine Mutz, Gwendolyn Hartfield, Sandy Starbeck do their assignment in table setting.

Getting ready for the centerpiece contest . . .

Betty Barrett, Shirley Stowe, Mary I. Coronado, Charlie Anderwald, Harriet Fey, Cathy Scott, Rosemarie Bennett, and Agnes Wehling exchange suggestions on the arrangement of Thanksgiving and Christmas centerpieces.

Caught in the act! Playful home economics students Pat Larkin, Sharon Fox, Arlene Davis and Josephine Diaz try to instruct the mannikins in the art of dress-making.

Preparing the secretary of tomorrow...

What's new in typewriters? ...

Always eager to keep up with the latest in office equipment, the commercial students, with Sister Mary Oliver, make a field trip to the distributing headquarters of the new robotypewriter. Mr. Gates, field representative of the company and host to IWHS, enumerates the special advantages of this machine.

Getting started on the day's work...

Martha Jo Riegel, Barbara Kiolbassa, and Rosemarie Trevino practice their shorthand.

First year commercial students practice the finger exercises which form the basis of later speed, skill, and accuracy.

... speed, skill, accuracy

The commercial classes have one common aim, namely, to produce the secretary who has speed, skill, and accuracy. Students are trained to apply their full skill to actual jobs that business typists must do, so that they can produce mailable work at a steadily increasing production rate.

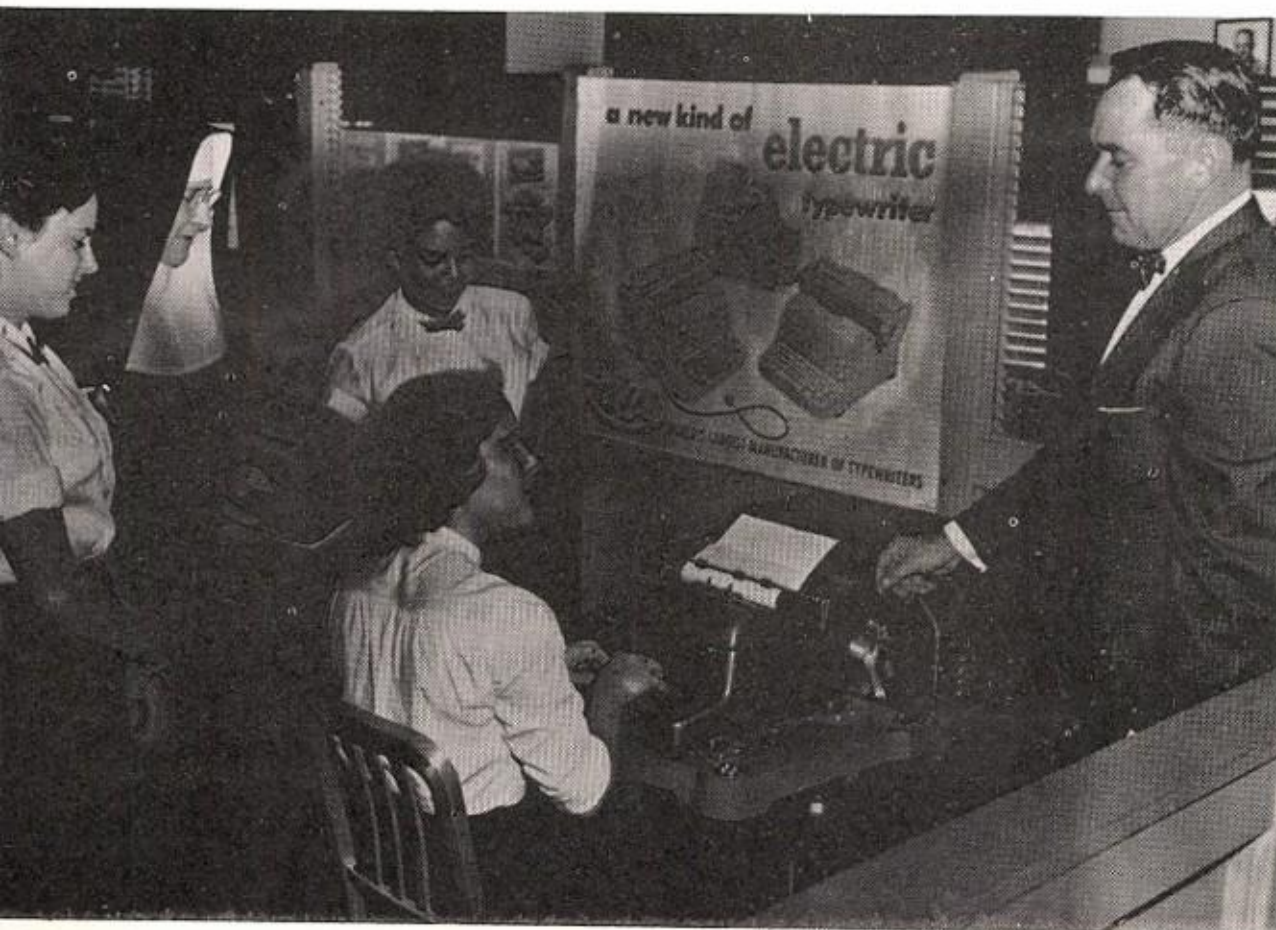

Students are familiarized with the techniques of banking, radio, television, transportation, etc. in order to prepare them for efficient service in the business world.

Rapid and accurate transcription on the typewriter, faultless English expression, dependability, a sense of moral responsibility represent the major goals of this course. In addition to developing skill, speed, and accuracy, Sister Mary Oliver strives to send out from IWHS young ladies imbued with the highest moral values and Christian principles.

The perfect steno nobly planned,
To spell, to type, to take shorthand!

Perfect only for one oversight;
what is amiss with Marta Pied-rafita?

The ROYAL gets smoother all the time . . . Agnes Schodts gets the feel of the latest model; Mr. Gates indicates new mechanical devices for bigger and better production in typing. Pia White, Sr.
Oliver, and Martha Morgan show deep interest.

Spanish Club enriches library . . . Norma Guerra, Yvonne Larrazola, Margaret Moguel, and Pat Miceli look with pride on the valuable collection of books presented to the library by the Spanish Club.

"There is no frigate like a book."

Books are the legacy of great minds to posterity. As freshmen we first became acquainted with our library through the sixweek orientation course. As years passed, we found more and more use of the riches that line the shelves, so that today we have acquired an appreciation of the best in literature.

Sister Mary Stephen, with her efficient student librarians, is always ready to aid us in finding just the book we need.

Busy student librarians . . . Maureen Sweeney, Catherine Mutz, Ana Marie Engels, Dorothy Vitek, Jeanette Hunnicut, Sandra Lafferty, and Rachel Martinez spend many a busy hour in the library workroom mending books and keeping the shelves well stocked for students.

Consulting Webster . . . Claudia Lugo increases her word power.

Nancy Johnson and Pat Medina browse among the classics.

At the Rosengren Book Store

Ana Marie Engels selects juvenile literature at the store.

Seniors participate in IWC Play Festival

Already in September, 1956, the upper-classmen resolved to make such a success in amateur dramatics that their glory would blaze for many years to come.

Accordingly they polished and repolished their "Scenes from Macbeth" for presentation in the Annual Play Festival held at Incarnate Word College in October. Their entry proved to be the pace-setter for the year.

Sylvia Navarro and Mary Jo Diegel won the "Best Narrator" and the "Best Actress" awards respectively. Because of the fine cast and excellent presentation, the play received a rating of "Superior" from the official judge and critic, Mr. Joe Salek, Director of the San Antonio Little Theater.

"Life's but a walking shadow . . ." Judy Neitzel playing the title role in "Macbeth" at the Regional Drama Festival held at Incarnate Word College in October, 1956.

"Fair is foul and foul is fair . . ." Christine Johnson, Betty Jean Krenek, and Elizabeth Huth as the ghastly witches in "Macbeth" at Drama Festival.

Entire Cast: Sylvia Navarro, narrator; Alma Lopez, messenger; Mary Jo Diegel, Lady Macbeth; Judy Neitzel, Macbeth; Toni Kunz, Physician; and Rosemary Morris, Lady-in-waiting to the queen.

Editorials . . . features . . . banner heads . . . cuts...

The Star, organ of communication in IWHS, is published quarterly under the co-editorship of Suzanne Harris and Mary Schram. Its aim is to cover all school news and to stimulate school spirit by reporting each activity in which the students participate.

The editorship of The Star is a much-coveted honor, and students always manifest keen interest when a new staff is being selected. But it is not all honor nor smooth sailing, for many a time the editors have to "round up" the reporters who have failed to meet the deadline or whose articles do not measure up to the standards of journalism.

The Star is supplemented by school announcements, published in the daily press, and especially by the students' articles in "Hi-Notes," a column in the San Antonio Evening News devoted exclusively to local school news.

Sister Mary Climacus, sponsor, keeps a watchful eye on the copy as it comes from the fingers of typist Sylvia Navarro and her assistant, Dorothy Lewis. Feature Editor Elizabeth Huth, author of the copy, checks likewise on the girls.

Co-editors Mary Schram and Suzie Harris study the local newspapers for the latest in journalese.

Betty Barrett, circulation manager, is an interested observer.

Class reporters for the school paper gather in a quiet corner to round up the scoop for the Christmas issue of "The Star," a quarterly publication at IWHS.

Sandy Joseph, Shirley Forster, and Pam Gaume interview three seniors, seeking "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." And they intend to get it, too!

A goal achieved . . .

Editors Edith Worcester and Margaret Cortese, realizing the importance of accuracy, unhesitatingly consult Webster.

THE STAR of 1957

This year's staff adds another volume, the seventh, to the yearbooks of IWHS. It has been uphill work, for we have had to accomplish the task before and after school hours. One thing we have learned is that the business of compiling a yearbook of one hundred and ninety-two pages is neither the work of a day nor the sport of children.

Between headlines and deadlines the going has been rough at times. However, the experience has been valuable for all of us. It has meant seeing a difficult job carried to a successful conclusion.

We are grateful for the cooperation of each member of the staff and of the sponsors. Through their united efforts and patient labor we present this "chronicle of a school year" to our fellow students. We hope that THE STAR of 1957 will preserve for them cherished memories of happy days and of old friends.

The girl with that

STUDENT COUNCIL

The girl with the SC badge on her sweater is a member of the most honored organization in the school. She is a part of the Student Council, the student governing body at IWHS. A Student Council member is necessarily a busy girl. Besides holding down a full-time job as an outstanding student, she is constantly on duty enforcing school rules and assisting fellow students.

Members of the Student Council are the presidents and vice-presidents of the classes, the editors of the school paper and the annual, the president of the National Honor Society (IWHS chapter), the Sodality prefect, the resident Student Council president, a secretary elected by the Student Council, and a president elected by the student body!

OOOH! . . . Betty Krenak is on the alert for violation of uniform regulations. Jill Kimes will know better next time!

"May I have your attention, please! . . . Barbara Kiobassa, SC president, has the regular job of making the daily announcements at home-room time.

No protracted telephone calls while Mary Pat Bluhm is on duty! Pad in hand, Mary Pat times the calls of Cathy Sampson, Imelda Arcos, and Dora Fernandez, while Mary Alice Fernandez hopes to get her call in before the bell rings.

SC badge !

The Student Council is not only honored but is regarded as the busiest of organizations. Among its accomplishments this year are the publishing of a student directory, and the sponsoring of the Harvest Moon Serenade. The Student Council has charge of assembly programs, fire drills, processions and other functions in which the school is represented. Although in jest we call the girl with the SC badge a 'Space Cadet,' we respect and admire her and we cooperate with her.

High Noon! Angelus Domini

A daily job of Christine Johnson, sodality prefect, is to recite the Angelus over the PA system.

The SC takes over after the assembly . . . Suzie Harris, Pia Maria White, Betty Barrett, and Mary Schram stack chairs for storage.

Keep to the right . . . Priscilla Bitter, Gladys Noriega, and Marguerite Burkholder regulate freshman traffic on stairway at noon.

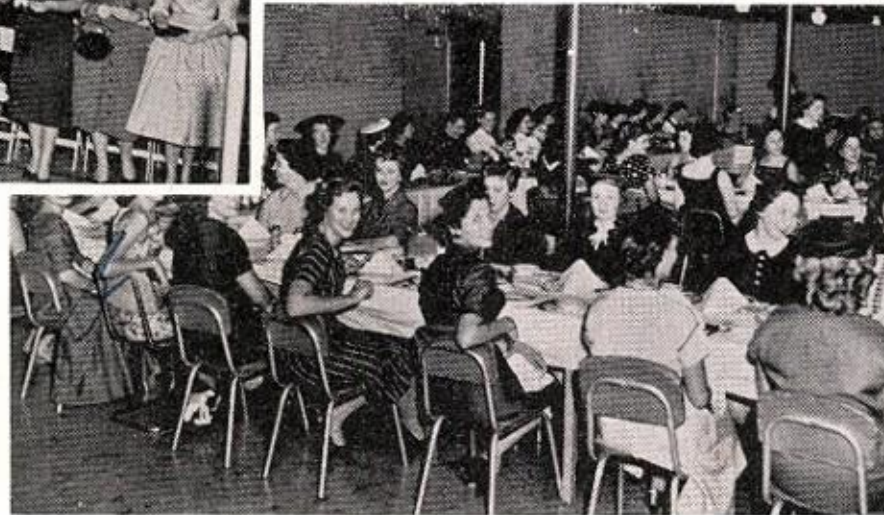

The better to see it, my dear! . . . Evelyn Jaks, Sharron Brown, Janice Benson, Carolyn Cheshire, and Sylvia Martin compare stones and sizes.

Hard to believe . . . Diane Kahn, Dot Lewis, Joan Harrington, Doris Richardson, and Liz Huth proudly display their longed-for treasure.

"Through the dear school days . . ."
Seniors open Ring Day assembly with traditional school song.

Luncheon for the seniors at Seven Oaks Country Club.

En route! to Seven Oaks.

"Oh! it's beautiful!" . . . say smiling seniors Rosemarie Trevino, Sylvia Garcia, and Claudia Lugo.

"Congratulations, Doris," the Principal says to Doris Richardson.

Just look! Audrey McVea, Milber Jean Bedford, and Diane Gay invite inspection of class rings.

Ring Day at

I. W. H. S.

Rev. L. Stuebben blesses rings

"Rings on their fingers . . ." Elsie Perez, Betty Barrett, Pia White, Marcela Gutierrez.

A family celebration . . . Sylvia Martin shows ring to Mom and Sis.

OUR BLESSED SYMBOL

"I pledge fidelity to Incarnate Word High School, and I promise to wear this class ring with Christian dignity, and to be ever faithful to the noble and time-honored traditions of my beloved alma mater."

"All this and heaven too" . . . Audrey McVea makes no secret of her ecstasy on receiving her class ring from Sister Mary, Principal.

"To each her own" . . . Elisa Montemayor, Judy Neitzel, Mary Schram, and Catherine Perry pose for Regina.

Eyes only for their rings . . . Suzanne Harris, Agnes Schodts, Sylvia Navarro are lost in admiration of their class ring.

Give . . . give . . .

IWHS answers the call of the Junior Red Cross by presenting a handsome check, proceeds of a talent show, to Angela Schodts, treasurer of the JRC school unit. Barbara Kiolbassa, president of the Student Council, makes the presentation.

Sister Francis Xavier, IWH moderator of the JRC, and Sister Mary, Principal, pose with the Regional Director of Senior and Junior Red Cross, Miss Lewis, and with Sarah Toelle, president of the Bexar County Chapter after a general assembly. One of the United States representatives to European Red Cross workshops, Sarah had many interesting things to tell her classmates about her trip abroad during the summer of 1956.

ARBOR DAY

Pat Manqes, Agnes Schodts, Mary Haecker, Sylvia Navarro, Patricia Smock, and Betty Barrett, senior class officers, plant, sod, and water their class tree, a sturdy oak.

These also serve.

"As long as you did it to one of these . . . ."

The Rosettes, The Junior Auxiliary of the Santa Rosa Hospital, give generously of their time and service in order to release nursing personnel for the more important duties of caring for the sick.

They deliver mail to the patients, answer telephones, serve at the information desk, bring sunshine to the pediatrics department, and perform for the aged sick countless acts of kindness.

Over forty Rosettes from IWHS report for duty twice weekly after school hours. The work is entirely voluntary and is of incalculable value to the hospital staff.

The director, organizer, and inspiration of this corps of workers is Mrs. C. Woods, an active member of the Senior Auxiliary of the Santa Rosa Hospital.

Martha Edwards and Pat Garcia, sophomores at IWHS, bring Christmas cheer to a dear little boy away from home at holiday time.

Mrs. Woods checks in her Rosettes and assigns to them their duties. Jodie Leonard, Mrs. Woods, Pat Garcia, Nancy Sue Johnson, Jackie Staudt, Martha Edwards, and Carolyn Thomas are caught by our photographer at information desk.

A little patient and her nurse both enjoy the gifts brought by the Rosettes to make Christmas merry for this little shut-in. The "sunshine" girls are Carolyn Thomas, Jackie Staudt, and Jodie Leonard.

Most Reverend Stephen A. Leven, D. D. opens the school year with eloquent address on Christian education.

Assemblies provide education and entertainment . . .

Gaume, Bitters, Gleitz—a helpful trio backstage.

Congratulations! . . . . After the break-up of Ring Day Assembly, a few seniors chat informally with Father Steuben.

All ears! . . . one section of the audience at the assembly during Education Week. The guest speaker was Bro. Ringkamp, S. M., head of S.M.U. Ed. Department.

"I want you to be my baby," pantomimes Senior A. Schodts.

Jean Blackwell executes intricate acrobatic routine.

Hillbillies Glass and Groogan speak a word for "Garrett Snuff" with gay abandon.

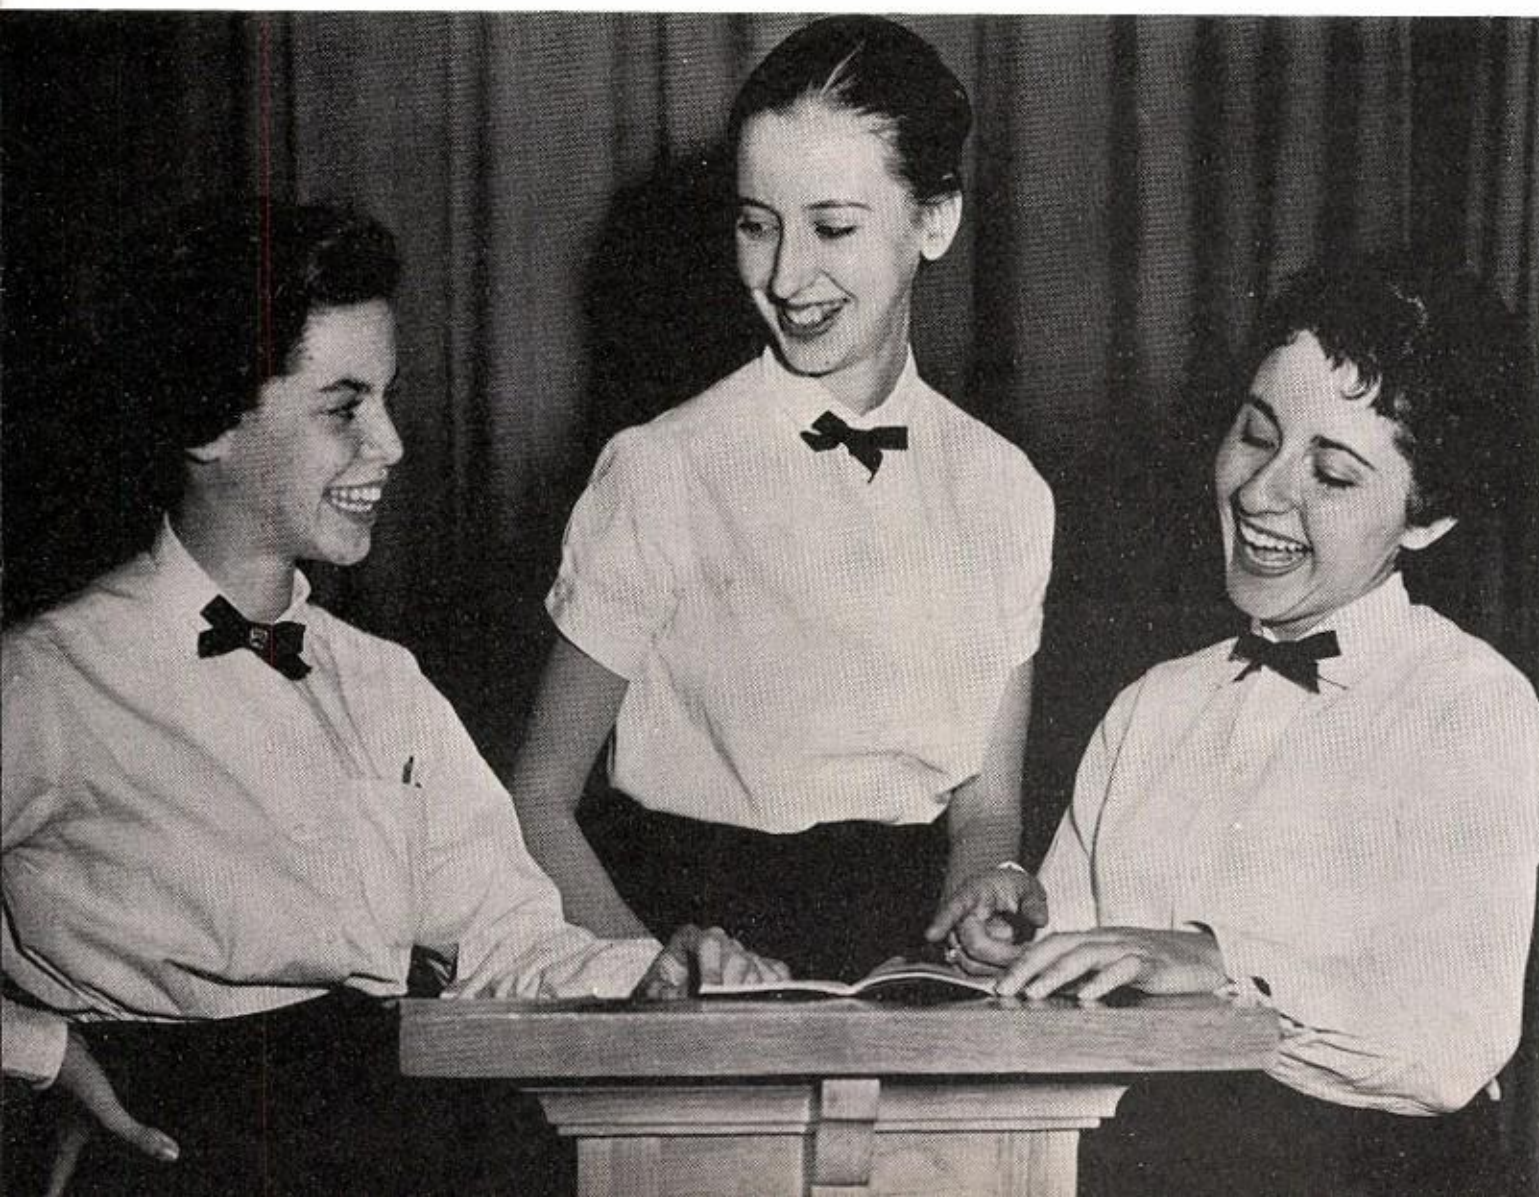

The students enjoyed very much the assemblies held during the year. They provided not only a break from classes but interesting, educational, and cultural programs.

The types of assemblies varied. At least once a month we had guest speakers whose topics were of profit to the students. The first such speaker was His Excellency, Most Reverend Stephen A. Leven, D. D., who spoke on the necessity of taking advantage of a new school year. Later, there was Reverend Charles Borgers, O. M. I., Rector of St. Anthony's Seminary, who stressed our responsibilities as teenagers, a very timely topic. In November, Brother Henry Kingkamp, S. M., of St. Mary's University enumerated for us the seven objectives of a Catholic education. Our Lady of Guadalupe was the subject of Dr. San Martin's lecture in December. By far the most amusing, yet interesting speaker was the Elizabeth Arden representative from New York, who not only gave us pointers on good posture, flawless complexions, and attractive hairdos, but demonstrated all three on stage.

At Ring Day Assembly, held October 11, '56, Sister Mary, Principal, presents class ring to George-Anne Perkins.

Pat Whitehouse, Margaret O'Connor, and Angela Schodts plan an entertainment for the Mothers' Club assembly in November.

Assemblies . . .

The freshmen specialize in home talent shows, regaling the audience with folk dances of many nations, song and dance routines of an older vintage, and original skits.

The seniors entertained with "Scenes from Macbeth" in an October assembly.

Miss Doris Trevino, teacher of acrobatic, toe, tap, and ballet dance at IWHS, organized the Christmas assembly. The program consisted of violin, piano, accordion, clarinet, saxophone selections by guest musicians, and dance numbers by the students of Miss Trevino.

All assemblies were conducted by the Student Council, under the direction of Sister Mary, Principal.

Almost curtain time! . . . Mary Ester Ota and Pauline Tomayo get set at the Steinway just before the curtain opens on the first act of the 1957 high school operetta, "The Ghosts of Hilo" by Paul Bliss.

At the general assembly sponsored by the H. S. music department, the Choralliers sang many beautiful choruses.

Lila Guerra, talented ballerina, entertains at a freshman assembly.

Bonnie Ebest sings herself into the hearts of all. Her accompanist is Mary J. Ruby.

Behind the scene stage crew keeps things rolling: Janet Mills, Kay Bergel, and Mary Jo Ruby.

Carol Whitaker and Linda L. Landry are in the tooth business for a laugh. The "happy tooth" is unidentified.

Variety in IWHS general assemblies

Freshmen have used more than one general assembly to win their way into the hearts of the upper classmen. Frequent talent shows help to focus attention on native ability in music and dance and to cement great friendships.

Ofelia Santillan does "La Farruca Jerezana" for the students of IWHS.

Mothers' Club . . .

The IWHS Mothers' Club is a hard-working group of ladies who contribute much to the success of the academic year. At the request of Archbishop R. E. Lucey, the organization was founded in 1944.

Mrs. Neal B. Beard, president, conducts monthly meetings.

Among the social activities sponsored by the Mothers are the "Winter Frolic," First Friday Communion breakfasts, and the Commencement breakfast for the graduates of elementary and high school departments.

The Mothers' Club provides two scholarships annually, one for the eighth grade and one for the twelfth grade.

Mrs. Richardson, member of the Mothers' Club, is being escorted on Open House Day by Marilyn Bueche and Anna Marie Engels. Here she is admiring the foreign doll exhibit in the library.

Members of the Mothers' Club serve guests at Open House in early November.

Through their many worthwhile contributions to school welfare, the members of IWHS Mothers' Club are promoting better understanding between home and school.

Open House . . . Members of the Mothers' Club take turns to serve guests as the afternoon wears on.

Officers . . .

Mesdames N. B. Beard; F. A. Miceli; T. Bessan; J. Toelle; W. Smith; G. Keenan; E. W. Haecker; H. A. Scholl; L. T. Pederson; they were on the receiving line on Open House Day.

Presiding at the coffee service is Mrs. Neal B. Beard, and Mrs. Anthony Speier serves petits fours.

Around the clock with a resident student...

At the beginning of each school year girls with common interests gather at Madeleine Hall, there to live as one big family under the guidance and direction of Sister Teresa Joseph, Dean.

In this home-away-from-home we enjoy the friendship of roommates, a home-like environment, and a friendly campus where we live a very normal and a very interesting life.

We are a cosmopolitan group, with representatives from the forty-eight states of the Union, from Mexico, from Cuba, and from Venezuela, but all here for the same purpose, namely, to get a sound education at the beautiful IWHS on the crest of Mount Erin.

Sister Ludgerus and Sister Mary Ann supervise noon service. Alma Lopez chooses chocolate meringue pie and Marcela Gutierrez counts calories.

With the temperature at 95 degrees, what more welcome than the limpid water of the pool!

Jean Simpson, Sandra Wistner, and Emily Puig try to entice Judy Graves, Kathy Lowery, and Daisy Gonzalez in for a swim.

Even their own mothers did not recognize them! How can we identify these Halowe'en merrymakers.

Via air from Caracas, Venezuela . . . Kathy Scott, escorted by Jamie Hood, Eastern Airlines hostess, is greeted by Sister Teresa Joseph and Sister Jeanne de Matel on September 3, 1956.

"Sleep no more . . ." Ofelia Santillan has a sleepy "Good morning!" for Pat Ruffo, official Madeleine Hall bellringer.

"This is the way we wash our clothes" . . . So say Jill Kimes, Magdalena Torres, and Marcela Gutierrez (tongue!).

"I marked my love by candle-light Sewing her long white seam."
Of course the author meant Norma Guerra and Gigi Clancy, our expert seamstresses.

OOps! I just knew

In the pleasant atmosphere of a cozy room

Ana Marie Avila, Ofelia Santillan
Claudia Smith, and Pat Ruffo enjoy a Christ-

it's Juanita Elizondo, Elizabeth Zimmermann, and Carolina Spencer who are sprucing up for an evening.

Ring day for boarders

Martha Piedratita shows her blue ribbon for neatest room to Maria White and M. Gutierrez.

Gretchen Schoelzchen admires the rings of her classmates, Diane and Dorothy Dubiel, Patsy Scott, Joan Hiscock, and Nancy Oldenburger. Gretchen's class ring, a late order, will be presented to her in the second semester.

B. Barrett, Pia White, and Marcela Gutierrez in Menger Hotel lobby after dinner.

Pat Reilly is a regular customer-and a champ also-at the N. St. Mary's Roller-drome.

MORE ABOUT BOARDERS

"Queen for a day!" Dot Dubiel carried off the Halowe'en honors.

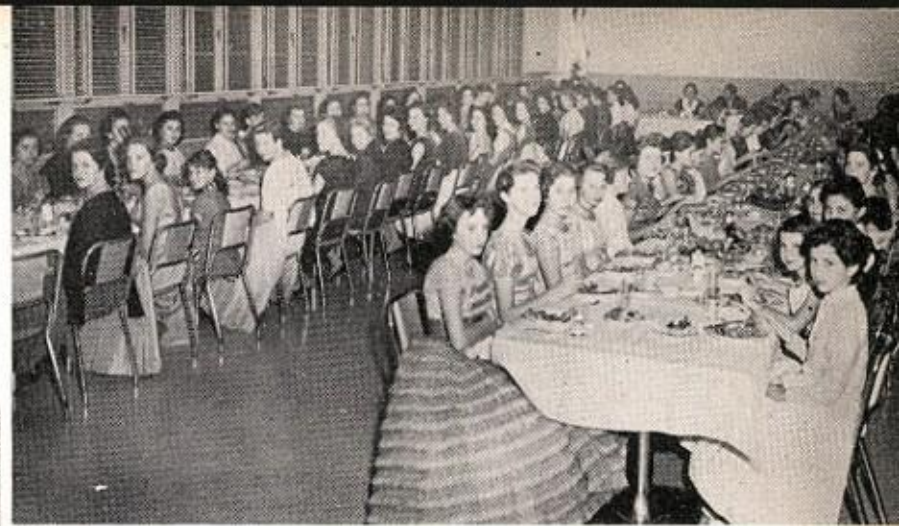

Joan Hiscock is in safe hands when Dr. J. K. Stewart prescribes for her and Sr. Leo takes the orders.

All aboard for Venezuela! Kathy Scott leaves for the Christmas holidays. A. Lopez sees her off at the airport.

We enjoy life...

Thanksgiving dinner is always a gala event at our home-away-from-home, Madeline Hall.

Ghosts and goblins never scare us away from the goodies of the Hallowe'en party.

Intent on watching the "Suzie Dunn" show, the boarders are totally unconscious of the photographer!

Cynthia Gonzalez and Pia Maria White preside at the Christmas "Wassail" bowl. Maria Luisa Herredia, Daisy Gonzalez, and Martha Morgan enjoy the service.

Maria Villarreal, Elia Gallegos, Joan Eggemeier, and Sharon Hewitt make an attractive foursome at the Fall gettogether party for boarders.

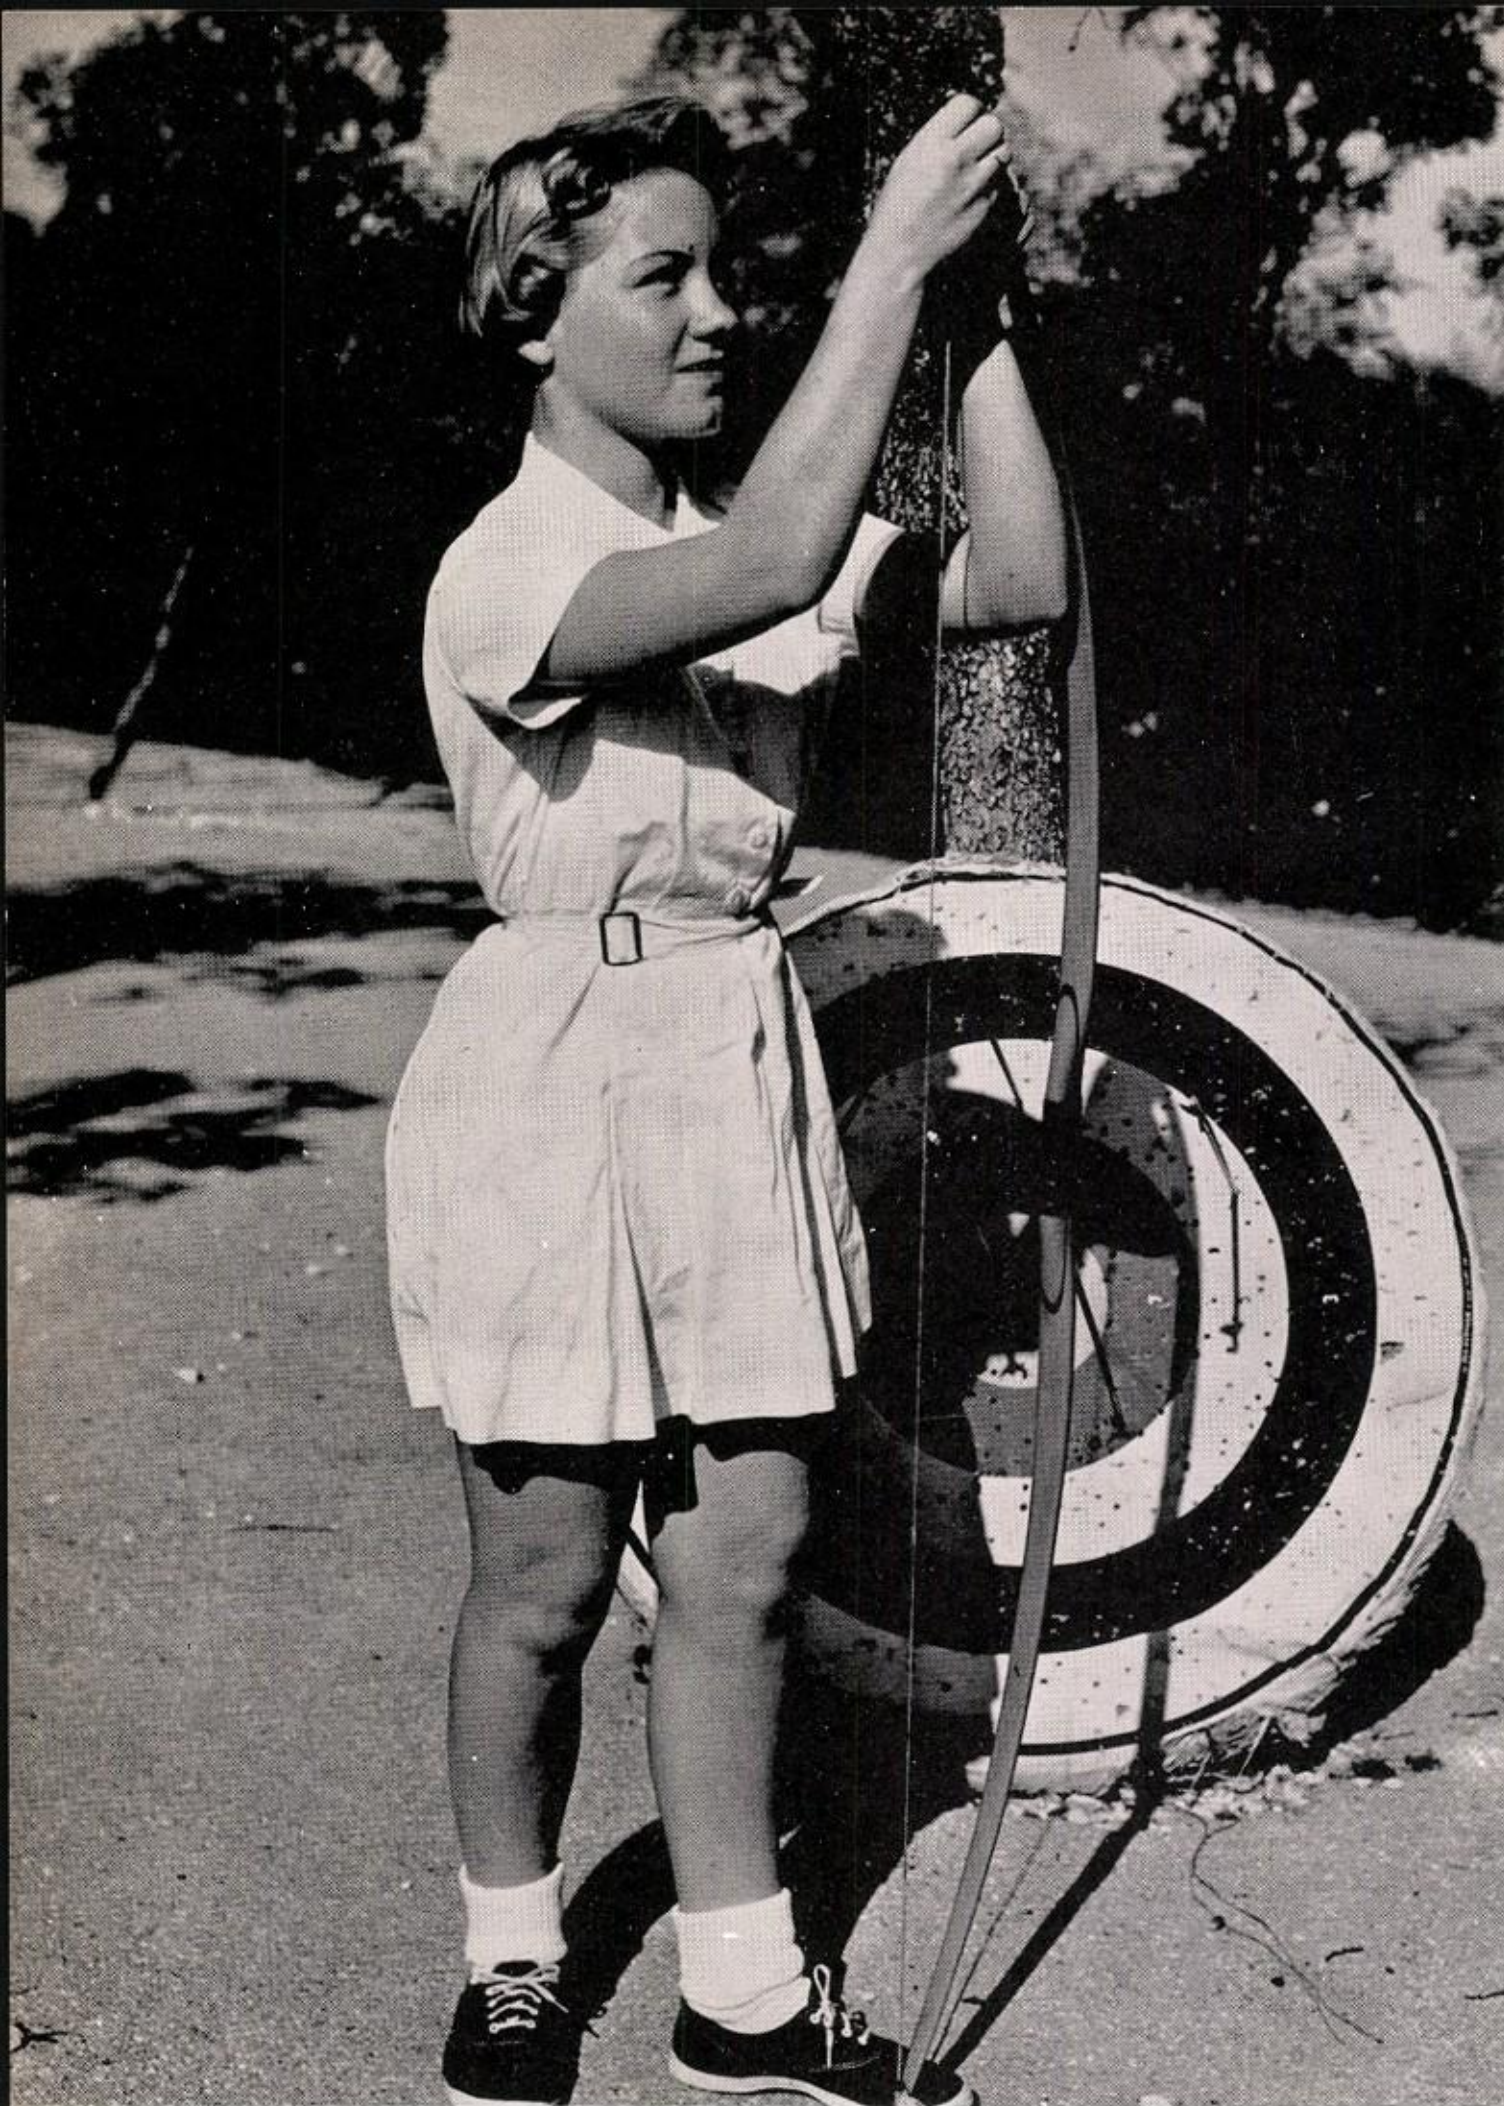

Pat Ruffo is glad that she believes in Santa.

Health and physical education . . .

Individual health counseling by members of the health staff is available to all students and is tied in closely with physical education class assignments.

In the sports program girls are always assigned to types of activities suited to their needs. In planning the health program, Sister Mary Leo, school nurse, Miss Chacon, and Mrs. Sommers work closely together.

Miss Adele Chacon, our Public Health nurse at IW, demonstrates the correct way to give a bed bath. The "patient" in this Home Nursing class is Diane Dubiel. The interested spectators are Pat Manges, Diana Doerr, Pat Reilly and Janice Armstrong.

Miss Chacon answers students' questions on the health film just shown. Pauline Tomayo, Jackie Holder, Sylvia Treviño, Emily Puig conduct the discussion after the movie.

Physical education teacher, Mrs. Sommers, Public Health nurse, Miss Adele Chacon, and School Nurse, Sister Mary Leo, C. C. V. I., plan the health course for 1956-1957.

Fun...exercise...fair play...

Daily the gym echoes with gay laughter as IWHS girls participate in the various games which provide fun as well as exercise. Here over 400 students cement friendships and learn that sportsmanship which is indispensable in the business of daily living.

Bonnie Ebest watching a shuffleboard game between Diana L. Sanchez and Linda M. Guerra.

Strike one! ... Maria Padua umpires a baseball game in which Estela Daphrosa is catcher and Gladys Noriega is batter up.

The ping-pong ball is a mere blur when Mary L. Hedrick whams it across the table to an able opponent. Her teammate, Janice Armstrong, keeps her eye on the ball.

Sound mind ... healthy body.

In the physical education department our goal is not so much to excel in games as to develop those qualities which will make us better members of our community both now and in the future.

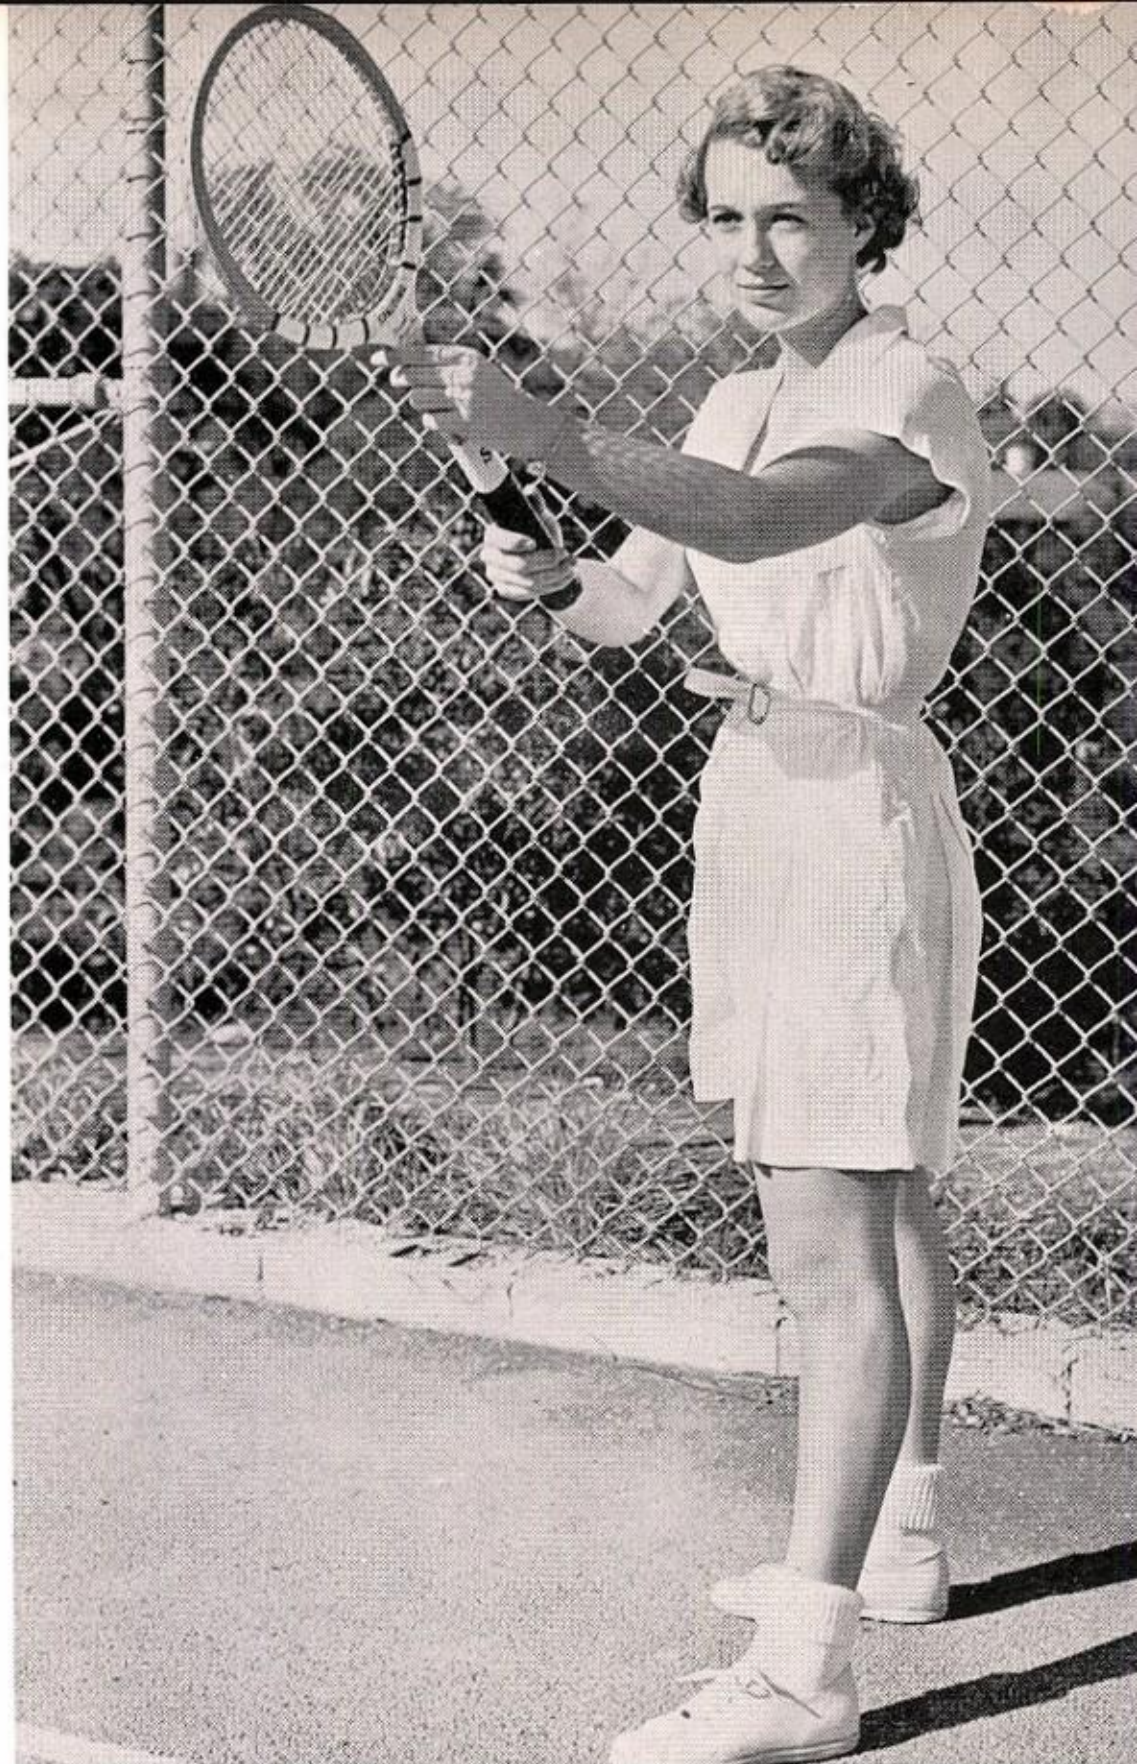

Mrs. Sommers, our teacher, continually stresses the importance of personal initiative, endurance, fair play, loyalty, and emotional control.

We participate mainly in seasonal sports, the groups rotating with each change of program.

No student is expected to become an expert in every sport, but each one is encouraged to participate in all activities so as to familiarize her with the rules and skills of the various games.

Intramural and interscholastic contests are planned, and friendly competition is encouraged with a view to stimulate student interest and to promote that esprit de corps which holds a crowd together.

At the right Becky Smith gets in trim for a set. She is one of the avid tennis devotees at IWHS.

Basketball

Basketball remains an all-time favorite at IWHS. Neither fire nor flood restrains the enthusiastic fans when the Varsity is slated to play in the school gym.

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Sommers and Coach Delo Dyer, the 1956-'57 Varsity has sailed into all comers with that courage born of confidence and skill, and have emerged victorious most of the time. Through the hard work of these teachers the finest qualities have been discovered in varsity members, as well as in the enthusiastic members of the cheering squad.

The IWHS Varsity will be remembered chiefly for clean play, excellent teamwork, and good sportsmanship in victory as well as in defeat.

Chez Jaycie ...

Jaycie Ingersoll's elegant home was the scene of the annual Junior Silver Tea, with Jaycie for charming hostess.

Yule log, Christmas angel, holly and laurel provided an atmosphere of seasonal good cheer and relaxation for the guests during the afternoon of December 9, 1956. Background music, selected with discriminating taste, added the finishing touch for a day to be long remembered.

Jodie Leonard and Jaycie Ingersoll enjoy a chat during the Junior Silver Tea. As usual, Jaycie proved to be the perfect hostess.

"Shall we dance ..."

One of the major all-school semi-formal functions is the Harvest Moon Serenade, sponsored by the Student Council.

Using a fall motif the seniors decorate the gym for the occasion, and make all the arrangements for the music and the refreshments.

At this dance the Student Council members are formally presented to friends and patrons of Incarnate Word High School.

A bevy of beauties . . . After formal presentation Marguerite Burkholder, Sharon Hoffer, Betty Jean Krenek, Mary Edna Haecker, Mary Pat Bluhm, and Barbara Kiolbassa, student council officers, smilingly face the guests at Harvest Moon Dance.

The night is young . . . Under the golden moon the dancers pause for a moment to smile for the Annual photographer.

Betty Jean Krenek, escorted by Clifford Lane, takes her place in the line of Harvest Moon honorees.

Mary Pat Bluhm, Student Council secretary, is escorted by Frank Dylla at the Harvest Moon Serenade.

Cynthia Gonzalez and her Sock Hop date enjoy a snack between dances.

Fun at the Sock Hop ...

A mere quarter of an hour sufficed for the seniors to plan the fall Sock Hop of November 26. The dance was a complete success for the couples and stags who, totally uninhibited, arrived in socks of all shapes, sizes, and designs. Recorded music sent them footing vigorously though noiselessly all over the gym, blissfully unmindful of the rules of health and hygiene.

The Sock Style Show highlighted the evening as the judges, after much debate, awarded first prize to Diana Garcia for her "air-conditioners," second to Phyllis Groogan for her "Mr. and Mrs." socks, and third to Shirley Forster for her "impressionistic" entry.

Cavorting at the Sock Hop are Catherine Sampson, Joyce Harrell, Sandra Hart, Sandra Giano, and Pat Medina.

Socks and shins . . . Barbara Hermachea, Mary Fritz, and Mabel Hinds with their dates are in no doubt about how to have a gay time at a Sock Hop.

The winners!!! . . . Diana Garcia, Phyllis Groogan, and Shirley Forster display the prize-winning socks.

More socks! Runners-up for the prizes were Kathleen Stearns, Diane Goodrich, and Sharon Marlowe.

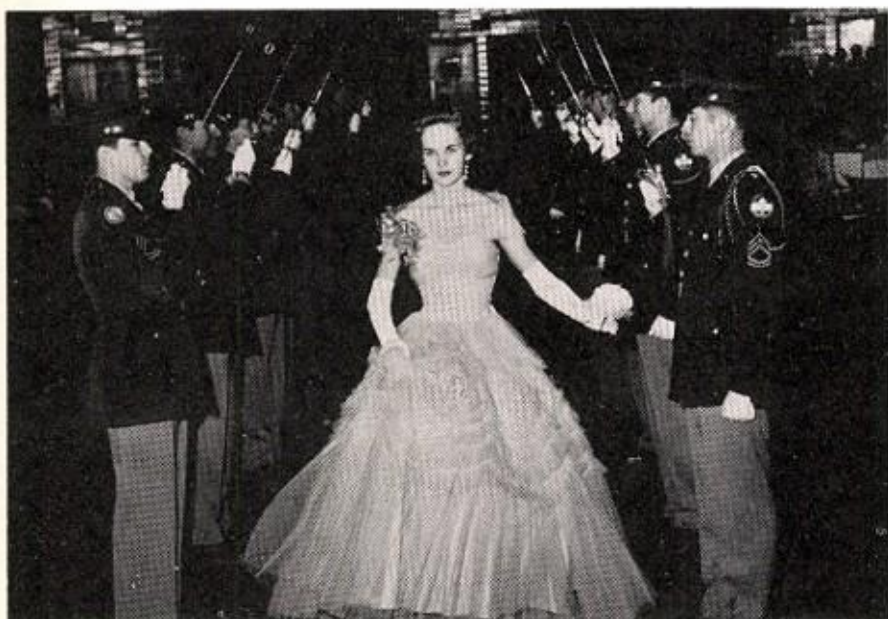

Here we are . . . The Sock Hop is over and we are tired but oh! what fun we had!

Her Gracious Majesty, Queen Suzie of the House of Dunn. Escort: Bobby Kiolbassa.

Winter Wonderland

On the night of January 25, music was our only language. In a Winter Wonderland the young and the gay, with fluttering heartbeats, glided over the polished ballroom floor to the haunting melodies of Larry Heman's orchestra.

The glamor of royalty, the hush of the coronation moment, the military precision of the Marian Saber Guard, the chivalry of the court, the heady perfume of gardenias have left indelible memories of the IWHS Coronation Ball.

Queen of the Winter Wonderland of 1957 was Her Gracious Majesty, Suzie of the House of Dunn, escorted by Bobby Kiolbassa. In the court were Princess Suzanne of the House of Harris, Duchess Christine of the House of Johnson, Duchess Sally of the House of Strauss, Duchess Sandra of the House of McLellan, Duchess Mary Ann of the House of Weiss.

The Marian Saber Guard pay homage to the Queen of the Winter Wonderland.

Back row: Messrs. Beard, Smith, Woods, Harris, General W. H. Simpson, Mr. J. Toelle.

Seated: Mesdames Beard, Harris, Smith, Woods, Lawrence, Haecker, Rodriguez, Simpson, Toelle.

The IWHS students were very honored to have as guests and chaperons these distinguished ladies and gentlemen.

La mode ...

New creations and chic modes are the keynote of the annual style show presented by the students of home economics at IWHS.

The amateur models not only show the stunning creations; they make them!

Everything from princess style dresses to wool jumpers picture the newest concepts in fashion.

Student designers disagree as to which is the more difficult, making their dresses or modeling them.

No matter what the answer, the student body is quick to admit that the style show is always a great success.

Distinctive . . . with simple bodice and full skirt. The lovely model is Betty Jean Krenak.

A versatile trio . . . Young and pretty for date-time wear . . . styled for under the sun or moon! Harriet Fey, Mary Frances de Leon, Hilda Cavazos offered these dresses at the Style Show.

Wonderful styling and figure-flattering numbers. . . Nancy Oldenburger and Mary Isabel Coronado are the attractive models.

So pretty to put on . . . Mary A. Wehling and Sidney Walshe model compliment-catching casuals in cool, soft cottons.

Mary M. Mullin, Sandy Storbeck, and Geneva Tupa in different-looking dresses they'll wear and wear and always look smart in.

Rhennetta Davydiuk and Shirley Stowe model slimming frocks which are both graceful and wearable.

Retreat ... "Come apart and rest awhile."

Reverend Godfrey Poage is a nationally known author of books and pamphlets. Here he autographs for one of the seniors In Garments All Red, the life story of Saint Maria Goretti.

The major project of the Sodality of Our Lady at IWHS is the annual retreat, held this year from January 21-23. Over four hundred students took advantage of this spiritual experience, following the exercises as outlined in the program.

The Retreat Master, Reverend Godfrey Poage, C.P., is a member of the Passionist Mission band, a Cana Director in the Archdiocese of Chicago, and National Moderator of the St. John Bosco Vocational Clubs. For years he was a co-worker of Father Lord, S.J. in the National Sodality Conventions. In the guidance of youth he is nonpareil.

Always available for informal discussion of problems, Father Poage made many new friends at IWHS. Here we see Cecily Thomas, Rosemary Morris, Elsie Perez, and Catherine Perry chatting with him.

Play gives place to prayer at IWHS as the gym is temporarily transformed into an oratory for over four hundred students who give undivided attention at the conferences of Reverend Godfrey Poage, C.P., Retreat Master for 1957.

Credenda ... speranda... diligenda ...

Reverend L. Stuebben, head of the Department of Religion, here answers particular questions on "Marriage and the Family," the special feature of his senior religion class. Audrey McVea, Charlie Anderwald, and Sylvia Flores present the problems.

At IWHS religion is the very core and fulcrum of the entire curriculum. All students are required to register for this course. In presenting Our Quest for Happiness, the high school religion series, the teachers make use of St. Augustine's recommended Historical Method, which follows the historical sequence of Sacred Scripture and weaves the events together in such a manner as to form a narrative which shows God's love for us and calls for our love of Him. We begin with Genesis in the freshman year and progress, in the senior year, to "vitam aeternam. Amen."

From our freshman year when we are made acquainted with our goal and our guides to God, the Creator, we go on to study Christ, the Incarnate Redeemer, to the Holy Ghost, The Church, and finally in our senior year we concentrate on The Eternal Commencement.

The auditorium is transformed into a temporary chapel for the First Friday Devotions at IWHS.

"Come to Me all you that labor and are burdened, and I will refresh you..."

At the beginning of each liturgical year, students voluntarily pledge their support of the Legion of Decency and the National Organization for Decent Literature. Reverend L. Stuebben here administers the pledge to Agnes Schodts, Teresa Claro, Lucy Willis, Rosemarie Trevino, Claudio Lugo, Judy Neitzel, Cecily Thomas, Pat Manges, Elsie Perez, and Audrey McVea.

Evidently some senior has come with strange and unfamiliar doctrine in a paper.

Another phase of religious instruction is the study of the Mass and its rendition in Gregorian Chant. The music teacher, Sister Dolorotta, here introduces a class to Chant.

Our goal and our guides . . .

Sylvia Martinez, Cathy Heyne, Betty Bonn, Shirley Biehl, and Pat Derby make use of the visual aids in their religion class with Sister Rosa Guadalupe.

Ad Jesum per Mariam

Freshmen find a way to help the Poor Souls in Purgatory . . . Carolyn Chronister draws a number which in the poster chart corresponds to an act of love or of self-sacrifice which she will practice this particular day, offering her acquired merit for the Poor Souls. Josephine Keenan and Anabella Blankenship are also willing helpers in this November work of mercy.

Advent Wreath . . . Charlotte Hebert lights the Advent Wreath as classmates Jackie Holder, Josephine Diaz, Jeannine Gleitz join in the day's prayer recited by Father Stuebben.

Fashioned with loving care and devotion, this Nativity Scene is the work of Maureen Sweeney, Charlotte Hebert, Pat Medina, and Jeannette Hunnicut.

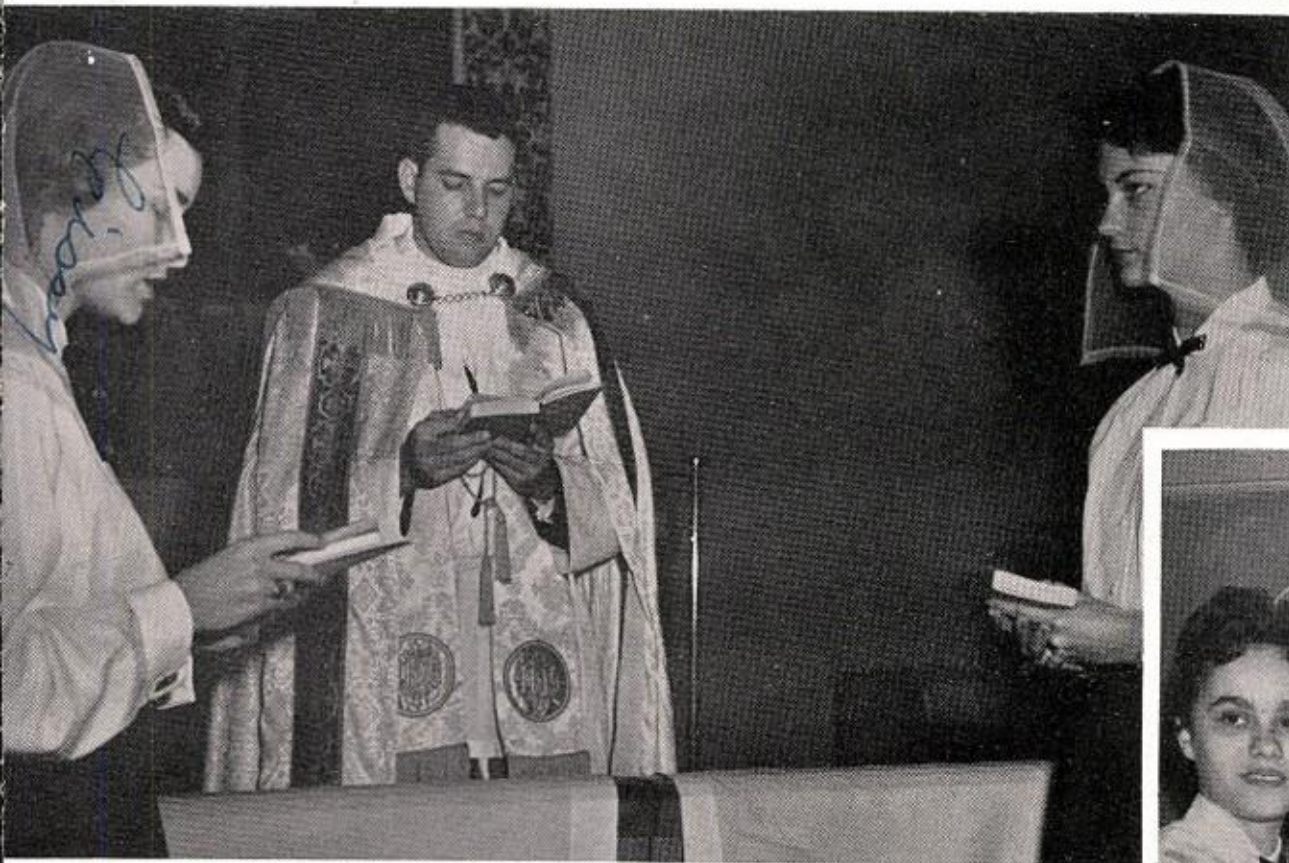

What better way to reach the Eternal Commencement than to find Jesus through Mary. This is the objective of the Sodality of Our Lady, one of the most active and instructive organizations in the school. Weekly meetings are held every Friday, at which through panel discussions personal and group problems are solved under the guidance of the respective moderators and the spiritual director, Father Stuebben.

Another active organization on the campus is the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, sponsored by Sister Achille, and dedicated to the Corporal and Spiritual Works of Mercy. Food and clothing drives are conducted for the benefit of the poor in San Antonio. CCD members also instruct in Christian Doctrine Catholic children attending public schools. Officers of the organization are Mary J. Haggard, president; Jeannine Gleitz, vice-president; Mary Margaret Mullen, secretary; and Ellen Luedemann, treasurer.

Carl Ann Franks, Daphne Davis, and Carl Bartz display charts made for freshman religion.

Symbols contribute much to the clarification of doctrinal teaching in the religion class of Sister Mary Oliver.

Installation of Sodality officers. . .Vice-prefect Cissy Melcher (1955-1956) is replaced in office by Marilyn Bueche in solemn chapel ceremony.

The Ghosts of Hilo...

... The major musical production of the school year is the operetta, presented by a cast of singers and dancers drawn from all four classes of IWHS. "The Ghosts of Hilo," a Hawaiian operetta by Paul Bliss, is the selection for 1957.

The story unfolds in a wooded glen near the town of Hilo, where, according to the natives, ghosts hold festivities and revels on stormy nights.

Once after such a night, a little girl is found wandering near the entrance to the glen. Strange are the clothes she wears and strange too, the queer little drum fastened to her belt.

Princess Leilani adopts the waif and treats her as a sister. Finally, to the surprise of everyone, her identity is accidentally revealed during the celebration of the feast of Laka.

"The Ghosts of Hilo" was presented under the direction of Sister Doloretta.

Princess Leilani (Edith Worcester) befriends the lost Kealoha and adopts her as a sister. Mary Margaret plays the role.

Maile (Linda Cheviot) knows more about the ghosts of Hilo than anybody else on this strange island.

Commencement

This is the year at last,
and the year's bright day
that marks the proud fulfillment of our dream.
We smile . . .

and have but few halt words to say to one another.

These last hours seem too glad,

too brief,

too tremulous for speech.

The four years rich with fellowship are gone,

and we are here,

our goal within our reach,

with work and laughter to look back upon.

Forward we gaze

beyond this hour's pride, forward to life and greater work and faith;

And we,

who strove and failed and fought and sighed, stand here with valiant hearts and shaken breath ...

Half-sad,

half-gay,

we know one battle done,

and set our courage toward the morrow's sun.

Prayer of St. Francis of Assisi

Lord, make me a channel of Thy peace ☪
That where there is hatred ☪ I may bring Love, ✕ That where there is wrong ☪ I may bring the spirit of Forgiveness, ☪ That where there is discord ☪ I may bring Harmony, ☪
That where there is error ✕ I may bring Truth,
That where there is doubt ✕ I may bring Faith,
That where there is despair ✕ I may bring Hope,
That where there are shadows ☪ I may bring Thy Light, ✕ That where there is sadness ✕ I may bring Joy. ☪ Lord, grant that I may seek rather to comfort ☪ than to be comforted; ✕
To understand ✕ than to be understood; ✕ To love than to be loved; . . . for . . .

It is by giving ☪ that one receives;
It is by self-forgetting ☪ that one finds;
It is by forgiving ☪ that one is forgiven;
It is by dying ✕ that one awakens to eternal life.

Dear Pat, Diane, Stay-or-whenever you are!
 Did it have really been a wonderful experience knowing you these years. You are a very sweet and wonderful girl and friend.
 Always stay as sweet and good as you are now and always remember me for I'll never forget you. Especially your black truck and the day Sister Ernestina had us loading gravel in it after you had just finished washing it.
 Oh my! What fun!
 The whole
 final class day at D.W. was so good summer. I hope that we will meet a gain soon. I'll bring Bill children to see you later
 God bless and keep you always.
